INDIAN ADULT EDUCATION ASSOCIATION

Annual Report 2017

Dear friends,

I welcome you all to the General Body meeting of the Indian Adult Education Association and place before you the Annual Report of the year 2017. While presenting my report last year I have given some information about Millennium Development Goals (MDG) and achievements made by world countries during the implementation period from 2000 to 2015 and Sustainable Development Goals 2030 (SDG) which started from January 2016. In all there are 17 goals in SDG out of which Goal 4 directly deals with education. It states that “ensure inclusive and equitable quality education and promote lifelong learning opportunities for all”. As the world countries, including India, have committed for achieving the goals within the prescribed period of time, it may be appropriate to know the level of commitment on the part of India by way of action to achieve the goals.

To achieve the tasks enumerated in SDG, it is necessary that a country has both the political commitment and roadmap with specific responsibilities allocated for the Ministries/Departments. As far as India is concerned there seems to be political commitment which can be seen from the speeches of Prime Minister in different forums which is given as below:

The first commitment was made when he spoke in the UN Summit for the adoption of Post-2015 Development Agenda at New York held on September 25-27, 2015 in which he said, “Just as our vision behind the Agenda 2030 is lofty, our goals are comprehensive. It gives priority to the problems that have endured through the past decades and it reflects our evolving understanding of the social, economic and environmental linkages that define our lives. We live in an age of unprecedented prosperity, but also unspeakable deprivation around the world. I am pleased that elimination of poverty in all forms everywhere is at the top of our goals. Addressing the needs of 1.3 billion poor people in the world is not merely a question of their survival and dignity or our moral responsibility, it is a vital necessity for ensuring peaceful, sustainable and just world. A great Indian thinker, Pandit Deen Dayal Upadhyay placed the welfare of the poorest at the centre of his thoughts. This is what we also see in the 2030 Agenda. It is a happy coincidence that we are beginning the celebration of Pandit Deen Dayal Upadhyay's 100th anniversary today. Sustainable development of one-sixth of humanity will be of great consequence to the world and our beautiful planet. It will be a world of fewer challenges and greater hope and more confident of its success. Our success will give us more resources to share with our friends - as India's ancient saying goes, the wise look at the world as one family".

The Prime Minister again committed in favour of SDG when he made a Lead Intervention at G20 Working Lunch on Development and Climate Change at Antalya, Turkey on November 15, 2015 where he said, "This year is a milestone. The United Nations turned 70. We have adopted the Sustainable Development Goals at the United Nations. We are days away from charting a sustainable future for our planet. The SDGs are comprehensive set of goals that places complete elimination of poverty in the world by 2030 as its top goal and it creates the right balance between growth, development, human welfare and environment. G20 must align itself with the SDGs. In doing so, we will also stimulate faster and a more broad-based economic growth. India's development goals are aligned with the SDGs. We are promoting growth and investing in skills to create employment for our youth; increasing the pace and quality of infrastructure expansion; and, investing in making far more productive and resilient. We have the world's largest financial inclusion programme and we have definite target dates for meeting all the basic needs of our people. Through bold economic and governance reforms, we have achieved a growth rate of nearly 7.5% with strong prospects for a higher growth rate in the near future. Given our size and scale, India can become a pillar of global growth and stability".

Thereafter, while making main statement in the BRICS Leaders' meeting on the same date at Antalya he also said, "In the area of development G20 must place priority on effective implementation of Sustainable Development Agenda 2030 and ensure funding for it".

While addressing the commemoration of the 70th Anniversary of the United Nations Economic and Social Council (ECOSOC), New York via video message on January 22, 2017 the Prime Minister said, "The international community has just given to itself a new comprehensive vision of development. The 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development presents a valuable opportunity for the UN system to rethink its role and purpose and make itself more effective. It is now the responsibility of ECOSOC to rise up to this challenge and contribute to making this Agenda a success. The 2030 Agenda is a reflection of the challenges faced by poorer countries. We in the developing world not only have to end poverty and hunger and satisfy the legitimate aspirations of our people for a better life, we also have to do so in a manner that is friendly to the planet and environment. The developed countries on the other hand, face enormous responsibilities to rapidly move their economies on to a sustainable path, follow sustainable lifestyles and assist developing countries with finance and technologies. At the same time, we have enormous resources at our command and technology today presents us with solutions that were unthinkable earlier. The challenge is to channel the available resources and use technology to tackle the most urgent problems facing us. In doing so, the guiding philosophy of the ECOSOC must always be the welfare of the poorest of the poor, or 'Antyodaya' in Indian thought. So long as there is poverty in the world, so long as our people, no matter in which country, remain deprived of basic human amenities, freedoms, rights and opportunities, the work of the ECOSOC will not be complete".

While all agenda items are equally important for a country for the overall development, as educationists we are more interested in Goal4 which directly deals with education and skill development. To achieve this goal Govt. of India has prepared a roadmap which can be seen in NITI Aayog website. Though, it is not complete in itself, the one available in the website fairly gives an idea which Ministry/Department is responsible to formulate programmes to achieve the targets enumerated under this goal by 2030. The information given in the website is given below:

SDG Description	Nodal Ministry	Centrally Sponsored Schemes/ Central Sector Scheme	Related Interventions	Targets	Other concerned Ministries/ Departments

				4.c By 2030 substantially increase the supply of qualified teachers, including through international cooperation for teacher training in developing countries, especially least developed countries and small island developing States.	School Education & Literacy Higher Education External Affairs

I am also glad to share the following information regarding progress made by the world countries for Goal4 in United Nations SDG Report for 2017 which goes beyond school enrolment and looks at proficiency levels, the availability of trained teachers and adequate school facilities, and disparities in education outcomes:

- (i) In 2014, two out of three children worldwide participated in pre-primary or primary education in the year prior to the official entrance age for primary school, compared to only four in ten children in the poorest countries.
- (ii) Despite considerable gains in primary school enrolment between 2000 and 2014, 9 percent of primary-school-aged children worldwide were out of school in 2014, with little progress since 2008.
- (iii) Surveys undertaken between 2007 and 2015 in selected countries show that children and adolescents from the richest 20 percent of households achieved greater proficiency in reading than those from the poorest 20 percent of households, and urban children scored higher in reading than rural children.
- (iv) Data for 2011 indicate that only about one quarter of schools in sub-Saharan Africa had electricity, less than half had access to drinking water, and only 69 percent had toilets (with many lacking separate sanitation facilities for girls and boys).

(The Sub-Saharan Countries are Angola, Benin, Botswana, Burkina Faso, Burundi, Cameroon, Cape Verde, Central African Republic, Chad, Comoros, Congo (Brazzaville), Congo DRC (Zaire), Cote d'Ivoire, Djibouti, Equatorial Guinea, Eritrea, Ethiopia, Gabon, Gambia, Ghana, Guinea, Guinea-Bissau, Kenya, Lesotho, Liberia, Madagascar, Malawi, Mali, Mauritania, Mauritius, Mozambique, Namibia, Niger, Nigeria, Reunion, Rwanda, Sao Tome and Principe, Senegal, Seychelles, Sierra Leone, Somalia, South Africa, Sudan, Swaziland, Tanzania, Togo, Uganda, Zambia, Zimbabwe)

- (v) Quality education and lifelong learning opportunities for all are central to ensuring a full and productive life to all individuals and to the realization of sustainable development. Despite considerable progress in school enrolment, millions of children remain out of school, especially where educational systems struggle to keep up with population growth. Even when more children are enrolled, many do not acquire basic skills. Quality education is hampered by the lack of trained teachers and adequate school facilities. Achieving this Goal will require intensified efforts—particularly in sub-Saharan Africa and Southern Asia—targeted to vulnerable populations, specifically persons with disabilities, indigenous people, refugees and the rural poor. Countries in Southern Asia are Afghanistan, Bangladesh, Bhutan, India, Maldives, Nepal, Pakistan and Sri Lanka.

- (vi) Early childhood is a critical period for a child’s cognitive development. Organized learning before the official start of primary school has been shown to boost a child’s social, emotional and intellectual development and support readiness for primary education and future learning. Pre-primary education is, in fact, considered an important part of a holistic and robust educational system. In 2014, two thirds of children worldwide participated in pre-primary or primary education in the year prior to the official entrance age to primary school. However, in Sub Saharan Africa, the least developed countries and landlocked developing countries, the rate was only 4 in 10 children, versus 9 in 10 children in Europe and Northern America, and Latin America and the Caribbean.
- (vii) Despite considerable progress in primary school enrolment between 2000 and 2014, 9 per cent of primary-school-aged children worldwide were still out of school in 2014. The rate has stagnated since 2008, reflecting pockets of exclusion and hard-to-reach populations. The out of-school rates for lower and upper secondary-school-aged adolescents and youth decreased, but remain higher than for primary-school-aged children, reflecting the difficulty in keeping pupils in school and the fact that youth have fewer opportunities to enter school in the first place. As a result, about 263 million children, adolescents and youth were out of school in 2014. Of these, 61 million were children of primary school age, 60 million were adolescents of lower secondary school age, and 142 million were youth of upper secondary school age. They largely resided in sub-Saharan Africa and Southern Asia, where educational systems struggle to keep up with population growth. In fact, these two regions accounted for over 70 per cent of the global out-of-school population at every level.
- (viii) Even though, more children than ever are going to school, many do not acquire basic skills. For example, only about half of students at the end of primary education have attained minimum proficiency levels in reading or mathematics in many countries in sub-Saharan Africa and Latin America and the Caribbean. Results of recent reading assessments show that inequity constitutes a major challenge. Parity indices from the assessments revealed that children and adolescents from the richest 20 per cent of households achieved greater proficiency in reading than those from the poorest 20 per cent of households, and urban children scored higher than rural children. The indices also showed that while out-of-school rates are higher for school-aged girls than boys, girl students had better reading proficiency at the end of primary and lower secondary school than their male counterparts.

- (ix) In some regions, most notably sub-Saharan Africa, the lack of trained teachers and the poor condition of schools are jeopardizing the goal of quality education for all. Sub-Saharan Africa has the lowest percentage of trained teachers in all three levels of schooling: 44 per cent in pre-primary, 74 per cent in primary and 55 per cent in secondary education. Central Asia, in contrast, has the highest percentages (above 90 per cent) in all three levels of education.
- (x) In sub-Saharan Africa, schools often lack basic amenities long taken for granted in other parts of the world. Only around one quarter of schools in the region have electricity and less than half have access to basic drinking water. Although 69 per cent have toilets, many still lack separate sanitation facilities for girls and boys. Based on data from 65 developing countries, the median value of the percentage of schools with access to computers and the Internet for pedagogical purposes is above 70 per cent in both primary and secondary education. However, the proportion drops below 40 per cent for many countries in sub-Saharan Africa.

It is to inform you that adult education in India is in crossroads now. The Govt. of India is yet to announce the new policy on adult education and programmes after completion of 12th Five Year Plan (2012 to 2017). You must be aware that after each Five Year Plan is over, the government normally reviews the progress made during the plan period and proposes new programmes and/or continues the old programme with some improvement in the implementation strategy with enhanced coverage. As far as adult education is concerned Saakshar Bharat was implemented in 12th Five Year Plan. As a policy, the Govt. of India dispensed with five year plans and hence, there is no 13th Five Year Plan beyond March 2017. However, like any other Ministry, the Ministry of HRD also has been directed to review, evaluate and report on the effectiveness and achievements of adult education programmes implemented so far with the specific recommendation for continuing the programme or dispensing it. It is learnt that the services of professional agencies have been hired to evaluate the programmes and institutions like State Resource Centres and Jan Shikshan Sansthan, the reports of which are yet to be released. In the meantime, there is no major activity carried out in the area of adult education as part of Saakshar Bharat programme and also by State Resource Centres and Jan Shikshan Sansthan in view of inadequate funds available. However, IAEA continued to support the organizations working in the field of adult education and reflected their achievements, whatever little they have done, through publications and propagated the importance of literacy programmes through meetings and seminars.

In this background I am presenting the programmes and activities conducted/organized by IAEA during the reporting period.

All India Adult Education Conference

The 62nd All India Adult Education Conference was organized at Lucknow on December 4 to 6, 2016 in collaboration with the India Literacy Board. The joint programme included celebration of Diamond Jubilee of India Literacy Board also. The theme of the annual conference was “Lifelong Learning for Sustainable Development” which was attended by 325 delegates from all over India.

The Chief Guest in the inaugural session was Governor of Uttar Pradesh, Shri Ram Naik. On this occasion Shri Ahmad Hasan, the then Minister for Basic Education, Govt. of Uttar Pradesh was also present. The Governor gave away Nehru and Tagore Literacy Awards.

The recipients of Nehru Literacy Award were:

4. Saksharta – Chunotiyani Evam Nidanatmak Hetu Ek Karyayojana by Dr. Kuldeep Gangwar, District Coordinator, Saakshar Bharat Programme, Fatehpur, Uttar Pradesh.

At the end of the conference the delegates unanimously passed Lucknow Declaration and Recommendations as below:

The Diamond Jubilee celebration of India Literacy Board, Lucknow and the Sixty Second All India Adult Education Conference organized jointly by India Literacy Board and Indian Adult Education Association, New Delhi at Literacy House, Lucknow on December 4 to 6, 2016.

We, the 325 delegates from Andhra Pradesh, Assam, Bihar, Delhi, Gujarat, Karnataka, Kerala, Madhya Pradesh, Maharashtra, Manipur, Meghalaya, Odisha, Rajasthan, Tamil Nadu, Uttar Pradesh, Uttarakhand and West Bengal representing NGOs, State Resource Centres, Universities, State Literacy Mission Authorities, Jan Shikshan Sansthan, academic fraternity and practitioners participated in the celebration and conference resolve to commit ourselves to actively participate in programmes and activities leading to Sustainable Development through Lifelong Learning.

The nine plenary sessions held in three days provided a lot of opportunity for knowledge sharing and learn from each other's experience. As India has committed to achieve the agenda set in the Goals for Sustainable Development 2030, we are firm in our opinion that redrafting of the policy and programmes is needed along with suitable infrastructure to implement the same. Hence, we recommend the following:

1. The New Education Policy may clearly spell out the framework for adult and lifelong education so that it becomes the starting point for all the actions taken to achieve the goal.
2. The literacy rate of a country is assessed by the number of literates in the age group 7 plus. Those who are non-starters and drop-out of the school system and are in the age group 15 plus need to be given basic education so that they are literate and numerate. For this adult education programme need to be continued with greater vigor and pace in the years to come.

3. Adult and Lifelong Education so far kept in the periphery of the total education programme need to be brought to the mainstream with proper infrastructure and adequate budget allocation.
4. NGOs, State Resource Centres and University Departments of Adult, Continuing Education and Extension/Lifelong Learning are time tested institutions with proven ability. They need to be continued with well defined objectives and adequate financial allocation. Temporary nature of any institution in the education sector cannot bring the desired result.
5. Skilling people for economic empowerment through wage and self-employment are the accepted policy of the government today. Jan Shikshan Sansthan working in the field of vocational skill development since 1967, particularly benefiting non-literates, neo-literates and persons with rudimentary level of education need to be included in the recognized vocational skill development training institutions. They also need to be provided enhanced financial support so that necessary infrastructure facilities for various vocational training programmes are created and well qualified resource persons appointed as trainers.
6. A number of NGOs working in the field of community development do a lot for creating awareness on various issues of important and immediate nature for a common man. Such institutions need to be identified and given responsibility of imparting literacy and basic education so that they implement the same in an area intensive manner for which they can be extended financial support.
7. As the number of illiterates is huge, it cannot be possible for government alone to give functional literacy to all and provide lifelong learning through basic education for vertical mobility to acquire education equivalent to class III, IV, V, VIII, X, XII and opportunities for joining institutions of higher learning. Hence, all stakeholders can be given the responsibility of participation with the government shoulder to shoulder. School students have the potential of teaching the elders and hence, the schools should be involved in a big way not only in functional literacy programme but also for further education through Basic Education Programme.
8. The State Directorates of Adult/Mass Education and State Literacy Mission Authorities can be strengthened so that state level planning of adult and lifelong education programmes are made, implemented, supervised, monitored and evaluated properly.
9. Lastly, Lifelong Learning/Lifelong Education can be achieved only through Lifelong Learning Centres. Such centres can be permanent institutions like schools and are established in all the Gram Panchayats.

Valedictory Session

The valedictory session was presided over by Shri R.C.Tripathi, IAS (Retd), former Secretary General, Rajya Sabha and the Chief Guest was Shri Alok Ranjan, IAS (Retd), Adviser to the Chief Minister of Uttar Pradesh. Other guests on the dais were Justice A. S. Verma, Shri G. Pattanaik and Shri K.C.Choudhary.

Dr. V.Mohankumar readout the Lucknow Declaration and Recommendations.

Committee Meetings

During the conference the Executive Committee met on December 4, 2016 at 6:00 p.m. Shri K.C.Choudhary, President was in the chair. The meeting was attended by both outgoing members of the term 2014-2016 and the incoming members of the term 2017-2019.

The General Body met on December 5, 2016 at 10:00 a.m. under the Chairmanship of Shri K.C.Choudhary, President, IAEA. The members of the General Body elected members for the Council for the period 2017-2019.

The Council met on December 6, 2016 at 9:00 a.m. which was chaired by Shri K.C.Choudhary, President. The Council with the responsibility of electing the Office Bearers and members for the Executive Committee endorsed the list of 21 persons for various posts for the term 2017-2019 as all were declared elected unopposed.

National Seminars organized at Indore and Tirupati

Indore, Madhya Pradesh

A one day national seminar was jointly organized by Indian Adult Education Association (IAEA) and the Department of Lifelong Learning, Devi Ahilya Vishwavidyalaya (DAVV), Indore on August 19, 2017 in which around 125 persons attended from all over the country. The theme of the seminar was 'Lifelong Learning and Skill Development'.

The inaugural session was presided over by Shri K.C.Choudhary, President, IAEA. In his address he said that IAEA was established by persons of eminence like Shri R.P. Masani, Dr. Amarnath Jha, Shri Raghunandan Saran, Shri N.K. Mukherjee and Zakir Hussain in response to the call given by Mahatma Gandhi to academia for providing civic education to non-literate and less educated persons. In the last 78 years the Association is working for the objectives for which it was established. However, there is a long way to go and the Association will be with the government for all the efforts taken to mitigate illiteracy. He also thanked the Vice Chancellor for the joint collaboration to organize the seminar.

The Chief Guest in the seminar was Prof. Narendra Kumar Dhakad, Vice Chancellor, Devi Ahilya Vishwavidyalaya. In his address Prof. Dhakad said that universities which were earlier considered more for teaching and research is now involved in community development work as part of outreach programmes. In that sense the Department of Adult, Continuing Education and Extension does a lot of good work which needs to be further strengthened in the times to come. He also stressed the need for skill development for economic prosperity and appreciated the Department of Lifelong Learning of his university for organizing a number of skill oriented courses.

Dr. Madan Singh, General Secretary, IAEA gave welcome address and read the prepared speech of Prof. B.S. Garg, former Chancellor, JRN Rajasthan Vidyapeeth Deemed University, Udaipur and Patron, Indian Adult Education Association was read as he could not be present in the seminar for personal reasons.

Dr. V.Mohankumar, Director, IAEA gave the Keynote Address in which he traced the history of educational development in India and elaborated the efforts of the government to eradicate illiteracy in different Five Year Plans. He also said that education used to be transmitted from one generation to the other through word of mouth and work has now been minimized because of the disintegration of joint family system. The educational institutions right from primary to tertiary only tests the students' ability to reproduce the lessons learnt rather than giving them the opportunity for original thinking. He was of the opinion that the young India needs proper skill training so that they are truly the trained manpower useful not only for the country but also for other countries of the world.

In the inaugural session Dr. Neerja Sharma, former Professor & Dean, Department of Adult and Continuing Education, Barkatullah University, Bhopal was honoured for the services rendered in the field of adult and lifelong education.

At the end Dr. Ajay Verma, Registrar, DAVV proposed the vote of thanks.

After the inaugural session one Technical Session was held in which two papers were presented, one by Smt. Asha Verma on 'Right to Education and Lifelong Learning' and the other was by Dr. V. Reghu on 'Recognition of Prior Learning'. After that the participants were divided into four groups with specific topics for discussion. All the four groups as given below made specific recommendations and presented the same in the general session which was presided over by Dr. Madan Singh.

Group-1 (Topic – Women Empowerment through Skill Development)

Chairperson: Dr. D. Uma Devi

Members: Smt. Indira Purohit, Ms. Rajashree Biswas, Ms. Ratna Biswas, Shri Prabhu Prasad, Dr. S.C. Upadhyay, Prof. Arabinda Bhattacharya, Shri Ananta Kumar Roy, Prof. Dilip Mukhopadhyay, Shri K. Rajesh, Ms. Amar Prit Kaur, Ms. Anishka, Shri Yasin and Shri Deepak.

Recommendations

- ❖ Employable skill development courses need to be started for women so that they become trained manpower
- ❖ Traditionally women are encouraged to undergo cutting-tailoring, embroidery courses. This attitude to be changed as no skill development course is exclusively reserved for women and girls
- ❖ Adequate exposure should be given about the successful women entrepreneurs so that others are motivated to follow
- ❖ Banks needs to adopt different rules for women to avail loan/credit facilities so that they are encouraged to be self-employed
- ❖ Attitude of individuals, families and society need to change towards women so that they are encouraged to be partners in all the decision making processes
- ❖ Women need to be encouraged to develop self-confidence and infact it should start from childhood both in the family and school. Subsequently, in work place also
- ❖ The government allocates a lot of amount for the overall development of women including for vocational training. To assess the success of programmes focused on women development impact studies should be conducted to ascertain the percentage of use of such facilities by women and their success in life after availing the government facilities
- ❖ Women should be encouraged to participate more in the livelihood programmes
- ❖ SHGs play a major role in women development to come together for a common cause. Almost all the departments form SHGs but no useful training given to the members for managing such groups. It is high time that all the office bearers and members are trained to maintain records, registers and financial transactions
- ❖ Gender sensitivity is an important aspect which mass media should propagate more

Group-2 (Topic – Recognition of Prior Learning (RPL))

Chairperson: Dr. V. Reghu

Members: Shri Apurba Kumar Chatterjee, Adv. Mrinal Pant, Shri Harish Kumar S., Shri S.K. Dutta, Dr. Madan Singh, Shri Shyam Sunder Nandwana, Shri Akash Jain, Ms. Raveena Batra, Ms. Rupal Mittal, Ms. Muskan Chauhan and Ms. Lavina Kishnani.

Recommendations

- ❖ Government may redesign the policies and programmes related to skill development so that it reaches the common man in the villages
- ❖ Skill development programmes and RPL may be made available at all levels – GP, Block and District
- ❖ All technical institutions may be given specific role to promote skill development and RPL programmes
- ❖ The Research and Development components of skill development and RPL may be entrusted to institutions like IIT/IISE
- ❖ To popularize RPL print and electronic media can be used to the maximum
- ❖ The success of RPL programmes may be periodically evaluated by external agencies to assess the success
- ❖ Industries and factories may be encouraged to play a major role in RPL for its own workforce
- ❖ RPL certified persons may be given priority in getting employment and availing loan/grant facilities from government/banks
- ❖ A national level survey to identify the employable skills in the near future and the years to come is necessary so that skill development programmes are organized by institutions accordingly. This will enable the trained workforce to engage in gainful employment.

Group-3 (Topic – Workers and Skill Development)

Chairperson: Prof. Asoke Bhattacharya

Members: Smt. Nishat Farooq, Dr. Sunil Sharma, Shri Durlabh Chetia, Ms. Sunita Manke, Ms. Shruti Ramesh Jain, Ms. Surbhi Patidar, Ms. Trapti Reda, Shri Moin, Ms. Kratika Lashkari, Shri Sanskar, Ms. Renuka Hardiya and Shri Shan Moinuddin.

Recommendations

- ❖ Workers may be given sufficient opportunities to learn basic skills and/or additional skills in technical/vocational training institutions for horizontal and vertical mobility in their life
- ❖ The industrial establishment could be recognized as assessing and certifying institutions for their workers with regard to the technical/vocational training which they can organize as per their need

- ❖ The employers can be encouraged to provide their workers opportunities for training so that they get additional skills either within the organization or outside
- ❖ Educational institutions can offer leisure time courses – both short and long so that workers participate and gain the knowledge
- ❖ Counseling and guidance for workers can be an important component of welfare scheme
- ❖ The employers can assess the workers with regard to their desire to acquire additional skills in which they are interested so that they are properly placed for the training.

Group-4 (Topic – Right to Education and Lifelong Learning)

Chairperson: Smt. Asha Verma

Members: Shri A.H.Khan, Shri Vivek Bapat, Shri R.C.Yadav, Shri Sudhakar Mansingh, Dr. Bharti Joshi, Ms. Sonali Gupta, Shri Anshul Singh and Ms. Tanishka Joshi.

Recommendations

- ❖ Creation of awareness on Right to Education (RTE) is essential so that all the children get the benefits
- ❖ Proper implementation of RTE is needed for better enforcement of the Act
- ❖ Close monitoring will enable the implementers perform well
- ❖ Teachers training needs further strengthening to enable them to play their role properly. In-service training of teachers also is equally important
- ❖ Educational administrators may have ears for the feedback from the teachers so that problems faced, if any, are rectified then and there
- ❖ Infrastructure in schools are not only created but also maintained properly
- ❖ Workload of teachers need to be regulated through periodical assessment
- ❖ Expertise and experience of senior persons can be utilized for providing lifelong learning
- ❖ Timely appointment of teachers can ensure teacher-pupil ratio as visualized in the Act
- ❖ Parent-Teachers Association should be formed in all the schools and their advice used for the betterment of the school and educational advancement
- ❖ Seminars/conferences/round tables can be arranged for getting new ideas for quality improvement of the inputs provided to educate the children.

In the closing session Dr. Bharti Joshi, Associate Professor & Head, Department of Lifelong Learning, DAVV explained in detail the various vocational courses (both long and short term) conducted by her department and the benefit accrued by the trainees by getting employment opportunities in the organized sector and self-employment.

At the end Dr. V.Mohankumar proposed vote of thanks.

Tirupati, Andhra Pradesh

A two day National Seminar on “Role of Universities in Lifelong Learning - Need for Paradigm Shift” was organized jointly by the Department of Adult and Continuing Education, Sri Venkateswara University, Tirupati and Indian Adult Education Association, New Delhi on December 12-13, 2017 in which around 40 persons participated which included faculty members, research scholars, practitioners and field functionaries and 24 papers presented.

The inaugural function started with the welcome address by Dr. K. Sudha Rani, Professor, Department of Adult and Continuing Education and presided over by Prof. G. Savaraiah, Principal, S V University College of Arts & Dean, Faculty of Arts, SV University. The Chief Guest of the seminar was Prof. M. Bhaskar, Rector, S V University and the Guest of Honour was Shri K.C.Choudhary, President, Indian Adult Education Association & Chancellor, International Institute of Adult and Lifelong Education, New Delhi.

Prof. G. Savaraiah in his presidential address said that the famous saying is human beings learn from birth to death but most of it in informal way. In the competitive world today one is compelled to learn in formal stream also to update the knowledge which enables the person to expand the horizon of opportunities for which lifelong learning is an important tool.

Dr. P. Adinarayana Reddy, Professor, Department of Adult and Continuing Education spoke on the profile of the department and how it played an important role as an academic and technical institution to the field of adult education in the state of Andhra Pradesh, particularly in the area of training, orientation, evaluation and research. As a pioneering institution it always played a proactive role in supporting adult education activities in the state.

Dr. V. Mohankumar, Director, Indian Adult Education Association, New Delhi in his address said that universities once considered as citadel of ivory towers are now made to be useful for common people also. The role of universities a few years before was for teaching and research only but now the third dimension added was extension. While a lot of tax payer’s money is spent on the students in the university it is expected that they serve the community/society as a mark of respect for the benefits received from them.

Prof. M. Bhaskar in his inaugural address said that lifelong learning contributes to the development of human capital and hence, it must be used in all fields of life. For long universities play a major role in offering Distance Education through different modes which needs to be further strengthened to suit the demand of the future needs.

Shri K.C.Choudhary in his address shared the milestones of progress the Indian Adult Education Association made since its inception 1939. He said that the founding fathers of the organization were visionaries who wanted India not only literate but also a country with learning society.

At the end Dr. R. B. Sathyavathi, Associate Professor, Department of Adult and Continuing Education proposed a vote of thanks.

The function was presided over by Shri K.C. Choudhary, President, IAEA and Prof. Muchkund Dubey, former Foreign Secretary, Govt. of India was the Chief Guest.

Prof. S.Y.Shah, Director, IIALE in his welcome address recalled the seminal contribution made by Dr.L.Mishra as the first DG, NLMA to conceptualize and operationalise campaigns for total literacy and said that the period between 1988-1993 marked a memorable chapter in the history of literacy movement in India.

In his nearly 45 minutes statement, Dr. Mishra paid glowing tributes to great women and men who had identified themselves fully with the cause of literacy and adult education in the country as a lifetime mission. He said that the book was not an autobiography in the conventional sense but was an honest effort to link a few facets of his civil and public services career with a few seminal issues of genuine concern such as poverty, hunger, starvation, malnutrition, illiteracy, distress migration, indebtedness and human bondage, trafficking and such other flagrant violations of human rights.

After that a lively discussion was held in which Shri P.S. Krishnan, Shri A.R. Nanda, Swami Agnivesh and Prof. Ambasht participated. All of them have spoken highly of the quality of work and contribution made by Dr. Mishra.

Prof. Muchkund Dubey in his address shared with the audience as to how respect for Indian value system was inculcated in him by his father through study of Sanskrit. He referred to the writings of Lalan Shah Fakir, the well known Sufi poet and those of Gurudev Rabindranath Tagore and the impact they had on him in promoting and nurturing a rational, secular and scientific temper. He agreed with Dr. Mishra that the affective content of education had a great role to play in positively shaping human mind and promoting tolerance of dissent and divergence and giving birth to an egalitarian social order where each one – high and low, rich and poor felt valued and cared for.

Dr. Madan Singh, General Secretary, IAEA proposed vote of thanks.
